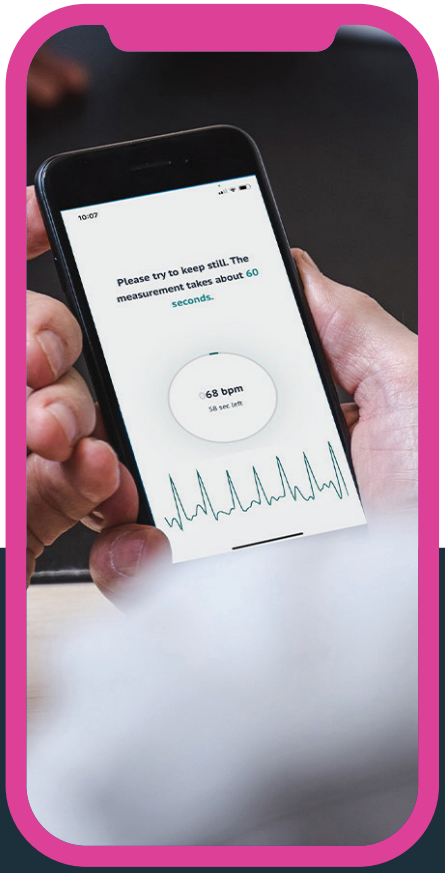
FibriCheck

Detect heart-rhythm irregularities and know when to act



Heart-rhythm irregularities can come and go, so they may not show up during a routine appointment. Without an easy way to check, potential concerns can be missed. FibriCheck lets Members check their heart rhythm on their smartphone in 60 seconds, with clinically validated analysis, expert review where appropriate, and clear next-step guidance.

The Need
Heart-rhythm irregularities can come and go, making them difficult to capture through a single point-in-time check.

The Service
Clinically validated heart-rhythm monitoring via a Member's smartphone, with unlimited 60-second checks, analysis for potential irregularities and expert review where risk is flagged.

The Difference
Members can check their heart rhythm wherever they are, helping identify potential irregularities that might otherwise go unnoticed and giving clearer guidance on when to seek further support.

Wellbeing Service

For Your Clients
A simple, accessible clinical way to support proactive heart health, helping people better understand their heart rhythm and take informed action when further support may be needed.
